ON DEFERRED HONEYMOON

Charles R. Flint and Bride To Visit Dutch Port From Which Family Came.

Charles R. Flint, known as "Father of the Trusts," sailed recently with his wife on a deferred wedding trip. Their plans for getting away earlier were upset by the illness of Mrs. Flint's father, Edward E. Reeves, shortly after the marriage July 30. They departed on the Cunard liner Scythia.

During their tour abroad the couple will visit Van Westervelt, Holland, whence Mrs. Flint's ancestors migrated to America in 1662 in a ship of their own building, reaching the Dutch colony that is now New York.

The Celtic of the White Star Line, carried an American Legion party of 600, bound for the convention in Paris.

CATTLE QUARANTINE

Knox County Affected By Order of Chief of Animal Industry Division.

Order was issued Saturday by Chief Herbert M. Tucker of the division of animal industry, State Department of Agriculture and the counties of Knox, Lincoln and Sagadahoc to be under quarantine for a test of all the cattle therein, the quarantine to become effective next Monday.

Waldo county is now under similar quarantine and it is expected that the work of testing the cattle there will be completed in about a month. Tests were recently completed in Washington and Franklin counties which have been added to the list of counties quarantined, tested and declared Modified Accredited Areas.

The order for the quarantine of Knox, Lincoln and Sagadahoc counties is as follows:

"Whereas, the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture and the Division of Animal Industry of the Maine Department of Agriculture are co-operating for the eradication of Bovine Tuberculosis in Maine, and whereas, Piscataquis, Penobscot, Franklin, Hancock and Washington Counties have been quarantined, tested and declared Modified Accredited Areas, and the work in Knox, Lincoln and Sagadahoc counties has been carried to that point where it seems feasible and desirable to make these counties also disease free areas:

Now, Therefore, I, Herbert M. Tucker, Chief of the Division of Animal Industry, Maine Department of Agriculture, acting under authority conferred upon me by Chapter 24, of the Public Laws of 1925, do hereby declare the said Counties of Lincoln and Sagadahoc Counties to be under quarantine for the purpose of a complete examination and test of all cattle therein, such quarantine to be effective on and after August 22, 1927.

"On and after said date no cattle of any kind, except beef animals and veals for immediate slaughter, shall be brought into said Counties of Knox, Lincoln and Sagadahoc unless they have passed a tuberculin test applied by a veterinarian approved by the Division of Animal Industry of the Maine Department of Agriculture within one year, or are held in strict quarantine until such test is made at the expense of the owner, unless such cattle come from a Modified Accredited Area."

Warden Baker of the State Prison was notified by the Chief of police yesterday that James Maroon, escaped convict, had been seen a few miles from Brunswick, and recognized by a party of Bangor people who were motoring home from Bangor. The occupants of the car know Maroon, personally, and waved to him, as the car passed. They reported the incident to the Bangor chief of police. Warden Baker in turn notified the Brunswick chief and State Highway Police. Maroon is one of the four men who escaped from the Union prison camp a week ago.

DIE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Sacco, Vanzetti and Maderios Pay Penalty of Crime— Counsel Visited Rockland On Way To See Judge Stone At Isle Au Haut.

Celestino Madeiros was executed shortly after midnight for the murder of a bank treasurer in Wrentham in 1924. He entered the death chamber at 12.02.37 and was pronounced dead at 12.04.35. Nicolla Sacco followed Celestino Madeiros to the death chamber at 12.11.12 and life was pronounced extinct at 12.18.02. Bartolomeo Vanzetti followed Sacco to the death chamber and a few moments after the latter was pronounced dead he was strapped into the chair where the other two had paid with their lives for murder.

Shortly before time for the death march to begin the inside of the prison was absolutely quiet. It is the rule at the Charlestown Prison that other prisoners remain quiet and in their cells away from the door during executions, on pain of solitary confinement.

The final act of the great drama which has had such an absorbing interest for the whole world was not enacted, however, until Rockland, Stonington and Isle au Haut had stepped unexpectedly into the picture.

In their desperate efforts to save Sacco and Vanzetti the counsel for the prisoners had appealed to Justice Holmes of the United States Supreme Court, only to find rejection of their plea. This was followed by a visit to Justice Brandeis at Chatham, who also rejected their appeal.

It was then learned that another Supreme Court Justice, Harlan P. Stone, was at his summer home in Isle au Haut, and to this distant point off the Maine coast, apart from telephone connection began a race which offered only feeblest hope of saving two human beings from the electric chair.

The men who made that race were Arthur D. Hill, Richard C. Evans, Harry Shulman and Arthur Barnhart, counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti. They left Boston at 3 p. m. Sunday and on reaching Portland telephoned to the residence of F. A. Winslow, who was asked to provide means by which they could reach Isle au Haut that night.

"Watchful waiting" are the two words which best describe the tedious efforts of the little group which had begun watching at 6.30 p. m. and which did not lay eyes on the quartet of Boston attorneys until 1 a. m. yesterday morning.

The counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti had barely caught the last ferry and with 50 miles of strange road ahead of them were obliged to proceed cautiously to Rockland.

Here they found, as the result

TALK OF THE TOWN

The special election which will decide the fate of the primary law will be held Oct. 18, in accordance with Gov. Brewster's proclamation.

A well known Maine Central yard master who's not as steam's he looks is being reminded by some of his friends, that Dresden is not quite such a famous beach resort as Old Orchard.

An observant citizen saw an automobile the other day which had for its number plate the well known chemical formula H₂O. Literally speaking the driver was "on, the water wagon."

The community may well be proud of the Knox Trotting Association and the successful meets held at The Knox Trotting Park, and even lovers of the trotting sport should plan to attend the races on Labor Day. The program stands out as one of the strongest.

Owing to the length of the celebrated motion picture film, "What Pecos Glory" there will be but one evening performance, except on Saturday night when there will be performances at 6.15 and 8.30. On the other nights (Wednesday, Thursday and Friday) the performances will begin at 7.45. Seats are reserved.

Three Maine Coast League games will be played in Rockland this week and there must be a very generous attendance if the club is to finish the season. Belfast, which won a twin bill from Rockland in Belfast, is here this afternoon, and it is quite probable that Charlie Small will be sent in to stem Rockland's batting attack. Camden plays here at 4.45 Thursday afternoon, Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Lewis Rosenbloom left yesterday for Cleveland, Ohio, where he is to have permanent employment in the commission brokerage business. Mr. Rosenbloom was a popular citizen, interested in everything that made for Rockland's material and civic welfare, and his departure is universally regretted—nowhere more so than by that select circle known as John Donohue's "Night Court" at the Thorndike Hotel.

Edward Gonia has transferred his affections from the Cushing shores to Crescent Beach, having bought from Frank Austin of Waterville, the well known Dr. Buxton cottage. This structure was built 16 years ago and occupies one of the most desirable locations on the beach as well as being one of the best summer homes in the crescent. The deal was made through R. U. Collins' real estate agency. Mr. Gonia has leased his cottage in Cushing for the time being and plans to dispose of it.

About once in every so often somebody starts an argument as to when the gas house was blown up. The discussion was renewed with much intensity, recently, and with proper respect for his excellent memory most of the debaters were convinced that Capt. Luke Spear was right when he said 51 years ago. John L. Donohue, also a reminiscence hound, and he averred that Capt. Luke had overstepped the mark by about four years. John H. McGrath hunted among some old copies of The Courier-Gazette and settled the matter once and for all when he found by a 25 years ago item that the disaster occurred April 7, 1881.

Judge Frank B. Miller was on the bench yesterday after a week's restful vacation at Columbia Falls, where he taught school in his younger days, and where, on the occasion of this visit, he met not a few of his old pupils. Judge Miller spent as much time as possible in the open and the result of it is reflected in his good humored countenance. He also indulged his well known penchant for digging into historical lore, and promises this paper an interesting story some day about his findings. Enroute to Columbia Falls he attended the annual convention of the Maine Association of Municipal Judges in Bangor, and was re-elected as one of the vice-presidents.

Stephen H. Cables, who went to Chicago to bring home an automobile belonging to one of the officials of the Lawrence Portland Cement Company, returned Saturday. While in the "Windy City" Mr. Cables saw the largest cement plant in the world in operation, turning out an incredible number of barrels each day. He also saw Col. Lindbergh at close range, and what interested him equally was a ball game between the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds. The former team is pointing the way in the National League. "Chicago is wild about baseball," says Steve, "and all I could hear was World Series talk." Mr. Cables also had an opportunity to see how generally cement is coming into use as a road building factor in the Middle West. He saw a marvelous stretch of it between Chicago and Detroit.

Practically "fool-proof" in the elaborate precautions taken to prevent interruption of broadcast and provide for almost any emergency is the new fifty-kilowatt transmitter of station WEAF at Bellmore, L. I., soon to replace the National Broadcasting Company's present apparatus at 463 West Street, Manhattan. While exact details of the new Bellmore station, now testing under the experimental call letters 2XZ, are still withheld by the company, it is understood that WEAF's new laboratory is unique even among the newest superpower stations recently erected by WJZ and WGY. Of its thirty-three water-cooled power tubes, four are emergency units ready to be pressed into service at a moment's notice. The same unusual care has been exercised in providing spare filament machines and extra generators for the plate supply; all wired to the main switching panels so that almost any emergency can be met and service be resumed in from six to fifteen seconds.

HIS WRITINGS PAID

The will of James Oliver Curwood, author and conservationist makes bequests totalling more than $400,000. The widow and three children, James Oliver Curwood, of Orono, Mrs. Charlotte Curwood Jiras, of Detroit, and Miss Viola Curwood, of New York, divide $300,000 almost equally, and numerous bequests of from $750 to $10,000 each to other relatives, to churches and civic institutions are provided.

THREE-TIMES-A-WEEK

Rockland, Maine, Aug. 23, 1927.
Personally appeared Frank S. Loddie, who on oath declares that he is President in the office of The Courier-Gazette, and that of the issue of this paper of Aug. 20, 1927 there was printed a total of 6,100 copies.
Before me, FRANK R. MILLER,
Notary Public.

In the face of an imposing world-wide clamor, originated in the ranks of anarchism and carried forward by propaganda which laid its hold upon many well-meaning but uninformed people, the courts and the laws of Massachusetts stand vindicated. When the fog and smoke of the historic Sacco-Vanzetti case have cleared away, the country will with increasing gratitude appreciate the fact that there sat in the Governor's chair of the old Bay State a man who refused to be intimidated by the clamor or the bombs of anarchy.

This annual feature of a get-together of old people gives Maine a publicity both widespread and unique. From all over the country, newspaper correspondents and cameramen will visit Portland to get the story of the meeting on August 31 of the Three-Quarter Century Club. The committee has arranged a program full of interest, the details including a special reunion of Maine couples who have celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Other features of the day include a knitting contest—open only to Maine women who have passed the age of seventy-five—the annual horseshoe pitching contest for the Gardner trophy, a gold plated horseshoe, an old-fashioned basket picnic to which all who attend will bring their lunch to be supplemented by luncheon accessories to be provided by the Portland committee; dancing of the old-time dances on the green in the beautiful Deering Oaks; singing of old-time songs—here is matter for enjoyment which should make a stirring appeal, as we have no doubt it does. We hope the large membership in Knox County has adequate representation, and that in each town there is effort made to help club members get to the scene of jollification. The Maine Automobile Association has a committee in each county to arrange for automobile conveyance for those members not otherwise provided. William D. Talbot of Rockland represents this committee in Knox County. He should be communicated with at once.

President Albee of the Keith theatres has requested the vaudeville actors playing his circuit to omit in the future all jokes from the stage about electric railway lines, stating that he did not regard derogatory comments about local street car service as being either funny or entertaining, but that he did regard it as being injurious to both transportation lines and the theatres. "Without the street cars," he said, "I cannot conceive how our patrons could reach our theatres. All of them don't own automobiles." Mr. Albee gave as his reason, that he does not consider the theatres to be places of criticism, but for entertainment, and that he hopes the time will come when actors will refrain from using cheap jokes, not only in reference to street railways, but to any other industry or officials of nation, state or city. It will be a refreshing thing to audiences. It was the Keith circuit that issued the edict against its actors cracking their jokes upon the subject of prohibition. Mr. Albee is a man of broad vision and sound views. Would that there were more vaudeville managers of his calibre.

One of the advantages enjoyed by this immediate region in summer-time is the coming into residence here of men and women of national prominence, who on occasion graciously respond to invitation to deliver public addresses. In particular are the various service clubs the beneficiaries of this fact, as was illustrated yesterday by the Rotary Club, which had as its speaker President Gray of the Union Pacific Railway, the first of the great transcontinental lines binding together the two parts of our common country and making of us all a single people. No man of his generation occupies greater prominence in the galaxy of industrial captains than President Gray. In making of the town of Cushing each year his place of summer residence there is conferred upon our community a distinction of which our people are not without appreciation.

The tragedy of this latest flight to Hawaii, wherein seven daring aviators, one of them a woman, have lost their lives, emphasizes anew the difficulties which surround these brave attempts to conquer the air. That some day man will triumph in this region as he has in others no one will venture to doubt, but the toll in human life attendant upon the achievement is a thing said to think upon.

We dare say our friends in Florida noticed that our friends in California have been visited this week by another earthquake.

THEIR BOAT CAPSIZED

One Convict Is Presumably Drowned—The Other Two Have Very Narrow Escape.

Lewis Gauthier, one of the convicts who has been employed on the high-sea job between West Rockport and Union, is supposed to have been drowned in the pond near the prison camp at 8 o'clock Sunday night when a boat containing three convicts capsized.

The accident was due to the familiar cause—changing positions in the boat.

The other two occupants were Henry Hule and Edward Southard. Hule could not swim, and when he found himself in the water he grasped Southard around the neck with a frantic grip. Southard struck him in the throat so forcibly that Hule was compelled to relax his hold, and Southard then managed to get his helpless companion ashore. Gauthier meantime had disappeared, presumably beneath the waves. Dragging operations were in progress all day yesterday, but without avail, in spite of the fact that the water at that point is quite shallow. Warden Baker had a drag especially made for the occasion.

The stories of the two survivors agreed, otherwise there might have lingered a suspicion that it was a clever getaway on Gauthier's part. The missing man belonged in Lewiston. He was 43 and was serving a short term.

TAS A GREAT SHOW

Success Crowns First Playground Field Day—The Cup and Prizes.

The first annual field day of Rockland Children's Playground was held very successfully at Community Park yesterday. Smiling skies favored the youngsters in their first organized exhibition and the event was so thoroughly enjoyed by those oldsters present that no doubt remains on the continuance of the scheme another year.

A picture was taken at 2 o'clock and the group made a colorful sight. Some 75 boys and girls were entered in the several events and each had a huge number properly attached. Director Pauline McLean Rogers was in general charge, assisted by Linwood Rogers, John McLean, George Van Weet and Ralph Fowler and in the girls' events by Misses Alice Snow and Dorothy Blaisdell. The youngsters displayed a lively interest throughout and competition for the several prizes was keen.

The large silver cup for highest total number of points fell to Bernard McIntire with a total of 14 points. He was closely pressed for the honor by several of his competitors however.

The events worked out thus: Girls' 50-yard dash—1st, Ruth Verrell, wrist watch; 2nd, Dorothy Goodwin, 10 theatre tickets; 3d Shirley McIntire.

Boys' 50-yard dash—1st, Bernard McIntire, pearl handled knife; 2nd, Frank Harding, theatre tickets.

Girls' Basketball goal shoot—Margaret Taylor, smaller silver cup; 2nd, Sylvia Shaw, candy.

Boys' basketball goal shoot—Burnham Young, smaller silver cup; 2nd, Bernard McIntire, candy.

Potato race—1st, Ruth Verrell, doll; 2nd, Shirley McIntire, perfume.

High jump—1st, Raymond Stevens, scout knife; 2nd, Herbert McIntire, candy.

Sack race—Maurice Cohen, harmonica.

Baseball throw—Bernard McIntire, harmonica; 2nd, John LaCrosse.

Girls' basketball throw—Shirley McIntire, 10 theatre tickets.

COUNTRY CLUB GOLF

An even twenty contestants gave interest to the usual Saturday tournament at the Country Club. A. C. Jones was the winner with a net 65, D. M. Virgin, second, 67, L. E. Wardwell, third, 68. The scores:

WORKING FOR HOOVER

Along with the word that Herbert C. Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, will soon return to Washington from the West, political gossip is to the effect that great activity in behalf of the Hoover Presidential candidacy is already on. While the announcement of President Coolidge that he does not choose to bid has aroused activity for various aspirants, it is the understanding that there is more work being done for Hoover than for any other candidate mentioned with the exception of former Governor Lowden. Will H. Hays, former national chairman, who left the Cabinet to become head of the motion picture industry, is credited with being active for Hoover.

This Week's Games

Friday—Rockland at Belfast.
Saturday—Camden at Rockland at 1 p. m. and Belfast at Camden at 4:30 p. m.

Rockland has lost three straight games since the standing was last published in this paper, and has descended considerably from its lofty perch. In fact the situation again shows all three teams tied, with these percentages:

The League Standing	Won	Lost	P. C.
Rockland	15	15	.500
Camden	15	15	.500
Belfast	16	16	.500

Belfast 8, Rockland 5

In the opening game at Belfast Saturday the race was neck and neck until the sixth inning when the upriver team staged a vicious attack upon Strecker and forced into the lead. This attack was continued in the seventh and eighth innings, and the brilliant batting rally made by Rockland proved all in vain. Except in two innings—the fourth and the eighth—Charlie Small was complete master of the situation, but the confidence of the home fans was given a terrible jolt in the eighth when Rockland collected five singles off him.

Kenyon, called home by the death of his brother, was succeeded behind the bat by Chamard, who played a fine game there, and whose double in the eighth clinched the victory for Belfast. Death has twice visited Kenyon's family within a few days, and he has the deep sympathy of all the fans. The score:

Belfast 5, Rockland 4

The second contest in Belfast Saturday was much closer, but Rockland's jinx was still on the job, and French's men saw their comfortable lead dwindle almost to the vanishing point.

Batting honors were nearer a par in this contest which stood 4 to 4 when Belfast went to bat in the eighth. E. Small led off with a triple and scored on F. McGowan's double.

In the first half of the ninth Rockland drew three bases on balls, and Merewether made a sacrifice hit, yet the run that would have tied the game was not forthcoming. With the bases full, and two down, Loftus came to bat. He had just made three successive singles, and the hopes of Rockland's followers ran high. The count stood three balls and two strikes and then he hit a grounder to McGowan who retired the side, and left the Belfast fans deliciously happy.

The feature of this game, aside from its dramatic finish, was the French's home run with one on. The ball went far over the cedar hedge in right field, and "smiling Joe" looked real content as he trotted around the bases.

It was Merewether's last game with Rockland and he celebrated it by accepting all of his nine chances and making two singles and a sacrifice hit. "Merry" has played starting baseball for Rockland, and was also one of the League's most popular men. That he cannot be with the team for the season's climax is much regretted. "Scotty" Marr, who played third base for Camden last season and was regarded as one of that team's best hitters, will replace him at second.

Johnny Daker made a wonderful catch in right field, robbing Joe French of a three-bagger on top of his home run. The score:

Camden 5, Rockland 4

A slim stranger by the name of Williams took possession of the Camden box last night and converted Rockland's mighty swatters into that breed of quadrupeds often referred to in the Darwinian theory. He stood them on their heads, twisted 'em into crullers and when that didn't satisfy him he churned 'em—an exhibition which tickled the Camden fans mightily.

The only time that the Rockland players came out of this seance was in the seventh inning, when five of 'em socked the ball to all corners of the lot, Pat French furnished the climax with a double which offset in considerable measure his two previous strikeouts. Except for this sport it was a sad somber and silent situation as "Murderers' Row" filed from the bench to the plate, and then, in emulation of a well known historical event, marched back against the wall.

The tally sheet shows that Williams had 11 strikeouts to his credit, and it would not be surprising if by this time he has not been presented with all of the real estate from Camden's new public library to the Fish Hatchery, including Mt. Battle.

Loftus also had one bad inning, and it was due in part to an infield error, made where Rockland's errors are seldom made, that Camden scored four runs off him in that session. All in all he pitched a fine game.

There were some other features, but nuff said.

"BEAU GESTE" COMING

Famous Mystery Story of French Legation Will Be At the Park.

"Beau Geste" is made right. In addition to pouring a fortune into this famous thrilling mystery story of the French Foreign Legion which comes to Park Theatre next week Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the technical accuracy of the picture was insured. The insurance was Lieut. Louis Van den Ecker, who served eight years in the Foreign Legion and later, in the World War, with the Sixty-Seventh Alpine Infantry. He actually fought in the very scenes duplicated on the screen and watched every detail during "Beau Geste's" making. Lieut. Van den Ecker has received five major citations, being a recipient of the Legion of Honor, Croix de Guerre, the Colonial Medal, Moroccan Medal and Polish War Cross. He joined the Legion when but 18 and took part in the Algeria, Sahara and Morocco campaigns. Van den Ecker fought in Indo-China

Weather This Week

Weather outlook for the week in North Atlantic States: Occasional showers first half and another period during latter half. Temperatures near or below normal.

Robert Prescott of West Palm Beach, Florida, has entered the employ of the Rockland and Rockport Lime Corporation.

Rockland Old Timers and Vinahaven Old Timers at Community Park at 1 o'clock this afternoon. No admission will be charged and it is permissible for the audience to laff.

A large bouquet of unbetterably handsome pansies graces the desk of the copy editor this morning. The pansies were raised by Otis Robinson of Cushing from seed sent by C. P. Strandholm of Copenhagen, Denmark, and the variety is known as Strandholm's Champion Giant.

In the obituary notice of the late Mrs. Asenath Wood printed in the Saturday issue, mention was made of a sister, Mrs. John Severy, and a brother Jesse as among the surviving relatives. There should have been added the names of another sister, Mrs. Eugene Smalley of St. George, and another brother, Charles Wood of Rockland.

Charles A. Shields has been over from Vinahaven making a little visit with his Rockland relatives and taking a whirl among old-time friends who are always glad to hear his hearty hail and get a shake of the hand from him. "But I tell you," he said with a note of regret in his voice, "the circle of 'em grows narrower every time I make a visit here. I miss a lot of the old boys I used to know."

City Marshal Webster was notified yesterday that a motor car stolen from John Greenhouse of Rockville had been recovered at Ogunquit.

Marriage intentions filed: Robert L. Prescott of Rockland and Ellen A. Young of Thomaston; Thomas E. Middleton and Christena White, both of Rockland.

A second successful odds and ends sale by the Universalist women at Mrs. E. F. Crockett's store last Friday will bring the total receipts to more than $150, with still a third sale in prospect.

Wilbert Snow is to give a reading on his Maine Coast poems assisted by a musical program at Community hall, Spruce Head, tomorrow night. A fine supper will be served from 5 to 7 by the ladies of the Community Circle. The entire proceeds of the affair will be devoted to better roads.

Mrs. Ellen R. Hall, 2 Pine street, has the model of a brig called the Essex, which was made in France. The hull is of wood, but the rigging, masts, yards, ropes, etc., are made of spun glass. One can look into the cabin and see the tiny table and chairs. It is really quite a curiosity and one wonders how it was made. The vessel is enclosed in a glass case. It bears a small pennant with the name "Irvin" on it. The vessel was shipped from France a long time ago, as a present to Mrs. Hall's brother, Irvin Sleeper, by his father, Capt. Nathan Sleeper, who sailed to many foreign ports. Capt. Sleeper and another son, Willie, were lost during a storm, many years ago, in Little Glass Bay, Newfoundland.

Fourteen million drachmas are to be made available for the construction of school buildings in Greece, according to an announcement made by the Ministry of Public Instruction. Of these, 6,000,000 are to be allotted to Macedonia, 2,500,000 to Athens, 3,500,000 to Epirus and Corfu, and 2,000,000 to Thrace. This money is available under a donation made by the Greek philanthropist Zappas, in whose honor the new schools are to be called "Zappas." Edwin C. Platt, American consul at Athens.

One of the folders deals with their last January activities. Among the attractions were Oak-Ke-Non.

Rinehart-Armstrong

A very pretty home wedding took place here Saturday when Miss Elizabeth Armstrong, the youngest daughter of Mrs. Marilla Armstrong of Winchester, Mass., and Rinehart, became the bride of Clement Rinehart of New York City. The wedding was at the summer home of the bride, which had been decorated very effectively with evergreen, callendulas and cut flowers. The bride was given in marriage by her mother and the service was conducted by her brother-in-law, Dr. Arthur Pratt of Greenfield, Mass., who received a special license from the Governor of this State to perform the ceremony. The bride was becomingly gowned in white silk crepe. The popularity of the couple was evidenced by the many wedding gifts of silver, linen, glass, money and other things, as well as by the 250 guests who gathered to witness the ceremony. The reception was held at the summer home of Mrs. Rinehart's brother, Mr. V. D. Armstrong, which was festively decorated for the occasion. Lobster and chicken salad, rolls, coffee, blueberry pie, cake and ice cream were served. Kirkpatrick's orchestra of Thomaston furnished music during the reception. Guests were present from New York, Winchester, Mass., Lynn, Rockland and the South, as well as many summer residents here and local people. Mrs. Rinehart is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College and has been a summer resident here all of her life. Mr. Rinehart is a lawyer in New York City where the couple will reside after their honeymoon.

NO "STALKING HORSE"

Senator Charles Curtis, Republican floor leader in the United States Senate, expressed the wish that his friends "in Kansas or in the nation take no action, particularly at this time," which would place him in the position of being a candidate for President. "Under no circumstances will I be a stalking horse to help or injure any candidate," he declared. "Nor will I be drawn into a discussion of probable candidates until President Coolidge's attitude is more clearly defined."

Farm electrification in this country increased 86.6 percent during 1926 in spite of the fact that the year was not a "bumper" one for farmers in most regions.

THE TROTTER HORSE

First Public Race For a Stake Dates Back To 1818.

We may justly claim the trotting horse as an American product for it is only in this country that the trotting gait has been brought to perfection. In May 1788 the gray horse Messenger dashed down the gangway of a ship from England, lying at the foot of Market street in Philadelphia and the history of the American trotting horse began.

Messenger was a thoroughbred English horse and was imported for the improvement of thoroughbreds in this country. The first two seasons after his arrival he was kept in Bucks County, Penn., then Henry Astor purchased him and took him to Long Island, New York. His life was spent in various parts of New York State with the exception of one year in New Jersey. He died at Oyster Bay in 1808 and at his funeral military honors were paid and a volley of musketry was fired over his grave.

His immediate descendants were trained for the running turf and were among the fastest horses of their day. A few years after his arrival the Pennsylvania Legislature passed a law prohibiting racing thus compelling owners to keep their horses for road purposes.

About this time, the country road growing better and road wagons being made lighter, trotting came into fashion and the wonderful trotting speed of this family was discovered. It is estimated that importation of this grand old gray added several millions of dollars in wealth to this country. The celebrated Hambletonian, the most fashionable stallion of recent times, boasted of four separate strains of this blood. Other stallions had an influence in producing the trotting horse but all combined might not have succeeded had not Messenger been imported.

The first time a horse ever trotted in public for a stake was in 1818, and that was a match against time for $1,000. The bet was that no horse could be produced that would trot a mile in three minutes. The horse named was Boston Blue, and won cleverly, gaining great renown. In those days most of the races were at long distances, two, three or four mile heats, and endurance was cultivated rather than speed. About 1820 trotting was thoroughly established as a popular pastime. Plank roads were laid out and "two forty on a plank road" became the familiar slang, applicable alike to horse and man.

THE FAIR STIPENDS

Commissioner Washburn Explains Terms Under Which They're Granted.

Commissioner of Agriculture Washburn, has sent a communication to the officers of all the agricultural fair associations, for their guidance and assistance, explaining the distribution of the state stipends for fairs.

"At two and one-half percent per inhabitant of the State, the stipend is $27,880," says Commissioner Washburn in his communication. This amount, less $2,000 specially assigned to the Maine Pomological Society, is to be divided among the various legally incorporated agricultural societies according to the amount of premiums actually paid in full and in cash or valuable equivalent by the societies upon livestock and agricultural and domestic products.

"No premiums may be considered as a basis upon which this distribution shall be made except those offered and paid upon livestock, poultry, vegetables, grain, fruit, flowers, livestock products, home canned foods, grange exhibits, farm exhibits, boys' and girls' club exhibits, domestic and fancy articles produced in the farm home and pulling contests by horses and oxen."

"The amount paid in the domestic and fancy articles department shall not exceed the amount paid upon vegetables, grain, fruits and flowers. Each Society must have at least 100 separate exhibits or entries of vegetables, fruits or dairy products. So Society may receive any portion of the State stipend unless it pays at least $400 in premiums in the classes heretofore mentioned."

"All cattle exhibited or allowed upon the grounds must be tuberculin tested within one year previous to the exhibition."

"Sale of liquor, gambling, immoral shows and games of chance are prohibited and no Society which allows such violations to occur may receive any share of the Stipend. In this respect the new law is exactly like the old. Games of chance are held to include lotteries, wheels, paddle where more than one ball is rolled at a time, picnics, fish ponds and ring toss games, except where the number of prize played for is in clear view of the player, and all other games or devices where the value of the prize depends in any way upon luck or chance."

"The law expressly provides that any Society in order to receive State aid must file with the Com-

MANY TOURISTS COME

But the Traffic is "Spotty" this Season—Slightly Less For Rockland.

With the Maine tourist business for 1927 practically in mid-season, reports of Maine Central Railroad passenger traffic indicate that the tourist influx is notable thus far chiefly for its increase in some sections of the State and decline in other sections.

Warning that it was impossible at this date to give an accurate comparison between tourist traffic over the Maine Central lines this year and in previous years, traffic officials admitted that passenger revenues for June, 1927, failed by $30,000 to equal those for June, 1926. This represents a loss of about nine percent, according to M. L. Harris, general passenger agent of the Maine Central.

Expressing belief that a large part of this decrease for June is attributable to a decline of local travel, Mr. Harris pointed out that no separate accounting of local travel and tourist travel from other States would be made until the end of the season.

As evidence of the statement that tourist traffic is somewhat "spotty" at present, Mr. Harris quoted records indicating that the Bar Harbor Express, serving the Kineo, Waterville and Bar Harbor sections, shows an increase of 529 passengers for the present season to July 31 over that period last year, an approximate gain of six percent, while the New York to Rockland Express, on the contrary, shows a decrease for the same period of about three percent under figures of last year.

However, Mr. Harris pointed out that the summer influx of tourists is not yet on the wane as he said, "Last Saturday witnessed a heavy traffic of vacationists in both directions, with the incoming tide of tourists far exceeding those leaving the State. Nine sleeping cars were necessary to bring tourists from Canada last Saturday to the beach resorts over the Crawford Notch route, while the Bar Harbor Express from Philadelphia, Washington and New York, on the same day, required 22 sleeping cars to serve the inbound tourists for Kineo, Waterville, Bar Harbor, and intermediate points. Ten sleeping cars were required on the Rockland Express and five to Kennebago."

Farm boys attended from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. a recent four-weeks' special course conducted by the agricultural instructor of Acadia (Wisc.) High School. Classes were conducted in arithmetic, English, farm shops, feeds, and feeding; and an hour was devoted to physical training.

Modern people spend more for the joys of living than in any other age ever known. But they demand the utmost value for their money.

Present-day smokers find their sheerest enjoyment in Camels

THE people of this age spend millions for the good things of life. And they place Camel first among cigarettes.

Modern smokers make money, but when they spend it they insist on quality, and more people today buy Camels than ever bought any other cigarette.

Camel value has won the modern world. Money cannot buy choicer tobaccos, nor a more glorious blending. That's why increasing millions in the modern age single out this famous smoke as their favorite. You, too, will find it yours.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Tirrell, Jr., entertained nine guests at a birthday dinner in honor of Mr. Tirrell's father Thursday at the Community Sweet Shop in South Hope.

Last Thursday, Miss Florence Pendleton, Cedar street, reached another milestone along life's way. There were the usual gifts of flowers, candy, books, etc., cards and letters from friends from the Atlantic to the Pacific; also the inevitable birthday cakes. Among the friends who called was Mrs. Helen Pendleton, whose 95 years old gracefully upon her, and whose singing was one of the brightest and best features of the occasion. At Miss Pendleton's request, she sang that old time Woman's Rights political song, which goes something like this—"Yes, we'll vote, but not for Joe, not for Joseph, No, no, no." She sang it well and with much spirit, and all three verses too. It was a great delight to hear her. Miss Pendleton was also highly entertained by the singing of some of jazz as well as other vocal music by a young man who called to offer his congratulations. Miss Pendleton is always appreciative of every attention bestowed upon her, and especially enjoys callers in her isolated life.

An audience that overflowed the capacity of the Congregational church last evening gave its unqualified approbation to the program presented in the concert by the Pilgrim Vested Choir, which marked the debut of Louise Bickford Sylvester, coloratura soprano. A detailed review of the concert is reserved to the Thursday issue of this paper.

Mrs. Harold Morrison Foster of Rutherford, N. J., was hostess last night at an informal reception in honor of Louise Bickford Sylvester who had just made her brilliant debut as a coloratura soprano at the Congregational Church. The Bickford home on Beech street was exquisitely decorated for the happy occasion. The living room was a bower of flowers, many of them a tribute from friends. To these were added the beautiful bouquets tendered Mrs. Sylvester at the concert. Many telegrams and messages of congratulation were received. A buffet supper of fruit salad, rolls, cake and coffee was served in the candle-light dining-room which was graced with calceolarias and bachelor's buttons. Mrs. Fred R. Spear and Mrs. Alan L. Bird poured, assisted by Mrs. Lucie Spear, Mrs. Churchill Wahle of New York, Miss Hope Greenhalgh, Miss Jeannette Smith and Miss Lucille Price of Bethlehem, Pa.

WOMEN CAN NOW DO MORE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Keeps Them Well

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home. Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in great factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are lists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

substitutes if you seek the famous Quaker flavor

THE point to remember when buying breakfast oats is that only Quaker Oats have the rich Quaker flavor that you want.

One package of oats without that flavor may spoil your breakfast for a week.

The price you pay is the same. Thus "trying" a substitute is a folly. Quaker flavor is the result of some 50 years milling experience. No other oats has it. Quaker milling, too, retains much of the "bulk" of oats. And that makes laxatives less often needed.

Get Quick Quaker, which cooks in 2 1/2 to 5 minutes, or regular Quaker Oats as you have always known.

Your grocer has both kinds.

WASHBURN'S WASHINGTON WEEKLY

By R. M. Washburn

A surgeon wandered through his laboratory. His eyes lighted on a glass jar. It contained a human brain. The surgeon was profoundly affected, for he remembered that it was a brain taken temporarily from the head of one of his patients. He had forgotten to replace it. He realized that the duty was now his to call upon the patient and explain. It was four-thirty. He went to his house. The wife of the patient was alone. The surgeon asked, carefully: "Where is George?" "He will be in at five," the wife replied. "How is his health?" continued the surgeon, more carefully. "Better, lately," she answered. The surgeon went out to lean over the gate and wait.

Soon George approached. To the surprise and relief of the surgeon, he looked remarkably well for a man minus a brain. He swung a cane. A rose adorned his coat. The surgeon plunged in, in medias res. "George," he said, "I have a horrible news. Your brain is in a jar in my laboratory." George looked at him with pity and then said: "Be of good cheer. For a time I was troubled. Then I received a government appointment, since which day I have suffered no inconvenience." This little story is told, not in any spirit of less majestic but simply to shade down that abnormal awe of the people for their public servants to its reasonable place.

It is high time that some of the friends of the President, and they may easily be located, set out to correct a common misapprehension of the statement which is a distinct reflection on his sincerity of expression. He can not and so will not accept, even a unanimous nomination by his party, even if offered. Whether it can be unanimous, is beyond the purpose of the present. All are agreed that the President said in substance: I shall not be a candidate for the nomination. In this connection it is vital to note, that he does not limit his statement to the nomination. Hence it includes the election and that he will not be a candidate for that. Should he accept the nomination, he would be a candidate for election and so would be running for that office which he has chosen not to do. Then the same storm would break out as followed Roosevelt's statement, that he would not be a candidate for a third term.

Incidentally, the President is too much of a sportsman to sit on the bleachers and watch a field of candidates scramble for this prize and then come into the vineyard at 5 p. m. and cop one whole penny for an eight hour day. The next revision of the Scriptures should cut out this paragraph. It has caused much trouble in labor circles. Mr. Coolidge is out and should be respectfully so interpreted, however much the situation is to be regretted. Any other interpretation spells sleep and an inferior nomination by the party, which should from now on face the situation as it is and speed its energies, rather, on the question of the most fit nominee.

A report came to me, not long since, that a movement was being instituted in Massachusetts to send to the next Republican National Convention a delegation pledged to the Hon. William F. Borah for President. I have authenticated this report and find that it is accurate and that this movement will be instituted by the President of the Roosevelt Club, who is proceeding in his individual capacity. I am in a position to determine this fact. This is the beginning of the Presidential Campaign, for it is the first movement for anyone in the country. It is significant that this should be in Massachusetts and for Mr. Borah, and, whatever its outcome, it is an indication of the strength in other parts of the country. There is no evidence that this movement has the knowledge, consent or cooperation of Mr. Borah, which is not remarkable in days when all possibilities are indulging in those coy gestures now popular among those threatened with political preferment. The platform on which the campaign will be made in Massachusetts is: The people against the politicians.

The most popular mistaken political pastime, perhaps today, is to contend, either that Calvin Coolidge, the versatile intimate of the plutocrat and the plain will be the Republican nominee in 1928, or that he will not be. There is Mr. Henry Ford, who is clear that Mr. Coolidge has closed the door to Presidential possibilities. It is significant to those who cling keenly to the amenities of life, that though Mr. Ford continues to hang on to the bucket presented to him by Mr. Coolidge, he has not wired him to become a candidate, but he proceeded to forget him and to turn to Herbert Hoover. Mr. Ford either should have wired Mr. Coolidge, prepaid, that the country demanded his stay, La Maisson, or he should have returned the bucket, also charged prepaid.

Nevertheless, the portrait of Mr. Ford will hang on the walls of the little Ford's far more credibly than an ancestor, because of his years of tinkering with the Ford car, than though he had reached preeminence as a teacher of political department. The unhappy situation has alleviating features, that is to the Ford family. Further rejoicing, that Mr. Ford is regaining his pristine physical condition. For, if the Scriptures are sound in their proposition that it is exceedingly difficult for a rich man to get into the kingdom of Heaven, Mr. Ford, by this test, will suffer from a hot-box at the gate, if anyone does.

Mr. Frank Gilman Allen of Norwood, Summer street, Beacon Hill and Marblehead Neck, all of Massachusetts, is in a very interesting position. Mr. Allen is Lieutenant Governor. He is in the leather line.

STRAND THEATRE

"The Princess From Hoboken" today's feature, is more than creditably portrayed by the pretty little screen star, Blanche Mehaffey, who is dragged into the role of a famous Russian Princess. From the time she assumes her royal robes until the final fadeout, the little Irish girl from Hoboken is kept very busy in hiding her real identity until she is unmasked by an evil and designing decadent real Russian Prince, who penetrating her disguise, holds the frightened former restaurant waitress, in his power until his evil designs prove to be his undoing.

Heading the bill for the next four days will be that great screen classic "What Price Glory." The nation's foremost screen critics have been unanimous in their commendation of this motion picture masterpiece, declaring that it surpasses the celebrated play in every particular despite the greatest of the great attraction. It is proclaimed by all those in authority as the greatest motion picture of the year. It is not a war picture. War is its background. It is no more a war play than a love comedy laid in a sylvan setting would be called a love play. Its authors took war as the canvas on which to sketch their story; war as the great influence on men and women that would bring out pathos, comedy and human appeal as no other crisis in the affairs of nations could bring. Above all else there is comedy. Probably no picture ever made along the edge of a great world tragedy ever had so much comedy.

"What Price Glory" on the screen is peopled with real and human characters that will at once win favor. They are not just types. They are the genuine thing in front of the camera, which makes no mistake. "What Price Glory" is not only a great and absorbing picture, with thrills and heart throbs and a world of comedy, but it is crowded with incidents that will bring a chuckle and a thrill long after the moment you see it.

There will be but one evening performance (commencing at 7.45) except on Saturday night when there will be performances at 6.15 and 8.30—adv.

PARK THEATRE

Richard Dix in "Man Power" will be shown today. "Madame Pompadour" fourth of the British National Pictures to be released in the United States by Paramount, will head the program Wednesday and Thursday. As in the preceding three—"Nell Gwyn," "London," and "Tip-Too"—scintillating Dorothy Gish is the star. Antonio Moreno plays the featured romantic role—adv.

EMPIRE THEATRE

With the production of "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," Metropolitan has to its credit four successful stage plays transferred to the celluloid. "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," which ran for more than 30 years on the stage, features Mary Robson in the title role and Harrison Ford, Phyllis Haver and Franklin Pangborn. It will be shown Wednesday and Thursday.

"The Highwayman" by LaJes Biro. "The Highwayman" is a story of a highwayman who is a great deal more than a highwayman. It is a story of a highwayman who is a great deal more than a highwayman. It is a story of a highwayman who is a great deal more than a highwayman.

In addition there is Bob Custer in "Galloping Thunder"—adv. While some folks say that a garage is an asset to one who has reconciled his spirit to public office, Mr. Allen is still quite fortunate in his occupation, for he is in a position to re-sole the shoes of those many men who are in the Government. He is the custodian of the Government. It is the custom in Massachusetts to reelect its Governor, once. In other words, he is entitled to two terms of two years each. The Governor is now on his second term. He would naturally retire in January 1929.

On the other hand, the Massachusetts organization may press Mr. Coolidge to be a candidate for a third term. If it does this, it can hardly decline to support the Governor for another term, if he fancies it. This might tax the patience of Mr. Allen. Nevertheless he would hardly show his teeth. Not only are these sweetly dulled but Mr. Allen has seen two Lieutenant-Governors politically uprooted by undue influence. He is likely to replicate. To one of these, then Governor McCall made that epochal remark: Rather sail the seas forever with God than to attempt to make port without him. I can not quote this, literally, for up here in the woods my library is confined to a dictionary. Worcester, of course, a telephone directory and a mileage book. Frank, you have an army of admirers. No man except Coolidge has come along with your freedom from controversy. Cream like you will sit a long while, sweetly. And you have a good name because of his high place on the alphabetical ballot.

TO INCREASE STOCK

The Public Utilities Commission rendered a decision authorizing the Central Maine Power Company to increase the amount of its capital stock from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000. The increase will consist of 250,000 shares each of the par value of $100 and divided into 50,000 shares of common stock and 200,000 shares of preferred stock. The company paid a state fee of $8,750 because of the increase in the capital stock.

VOYAGING AROUND THE WORLD

Some of the Things Seen By Miss Hilda George On Her Trip With the Floating University.

[Ninth Paper]

Singapore Straits Settlement

I must get Singapore written up and all I can about Java for Christmas comes before we reach Colombo and we have so much to study about India.

Singapore is one grand mixture of races—the ruling Whites—chiefly the British—the merchant Chinese and the underdogs—the Malays, Hindoos and other Indians and even Japanese—although the latter are usually above the common labor class. Oh, the Malays and Indians were the most picturesque things I ever saw. Their brightly printed sarongs (skirts) their very dark bodies, their fezzes (they are mostly Mohammedans) men in long, silky hair topped with bright turbans, men with the beautiful sad brooding eyes, dressed in magenta colored sarongs, deep magenta against a black glistening body! That's not much of a sentence, but how give anything more than mere words! A great many men and women wore Javanese prints or batik sarongs with pineapple cloth shorts or waists, and the women with vivid chiffon on their heads, gold ornaments, armlets, bracelets, anklets or jewels clapped into their noses and ears. Some of certain castes had crimson marks between their eyes.

We had a splendid ride provided by the cruise, around the city, through some near jungles, through rubber plantations and coconut groves, across the Straits and into Johore. We saw the Sultan's palace and our first mosque—striking in its vast simplicity. We visited a rubber factory which was very interesting, though of the most abominable smell imaginable! It was a marvelous ride. I joined Miss Woods' party (three elderly ladies for dinner) through the most beautiful hotels and then we spent the night at another.

It was not very quiet, so we spent only one night there. In the morning we hired a car with an English speaking driver and took a delightful drive around the island. He showed us little bamboo Maif fishing villages along stunning beaches, palm encircled; Hindu settlements nestled in coconut groves; Chinese villages keeping up thriving business along the juncture of splendid highways. Then there were Chinese millionaires' homes, European quarters of great beauty, European millionaires' homes, everywhere luxuriant tropical growth. We saw lone Tamils from India collecting rubber in great forests of rubber trees. And here and there the shaven women in black sarongs (printed skirts) who naked walked astride their hips. It was all more thrilling than we ever believed it would be—real tropics.

It was hot as hades by noontime, and we were glad to get to the hotel to rest. The beds are all canopied in mosquito netting. The bathtubs are great crockery jars which you fill with water. Then you dip up large receptacles full and pour it over the head. The floor is stone and has an outlet for the water. About 10 o'clock E. and K. came and we hired another car, top down, drove around the island some more and stopped on top of a beautiful hill overlooking the harbor and bay and ships at sunset time. After that we took the boat to the coast, and the city's market in full session along a wide boulevard, all sorts of vendors, all nationalities, chiefly Chinese though. We passed a Chinese theatre and decided to go to it after dinner. People thought we were crazy to go there. We were the only Europeans there, of course. It was a much higher class theatre than we had seen in China. First-class seats were beautifully carved and seemed to be of very nice wood. In between every two seats was a little table for refreshments. The stage setting was a little less crude than what we saw at Kowloon, and the costumes looked very costly. The acting was less sensational—in fact, it consisted chiefly of dialogues and duets interspersed with what I suppose was very fine dancing, but seemed to us mere grotesque attitudes. It was rather monotonous, and oh, their hands were so awkward!

We went back to the boat for the night. Believe me, the nights on board in port are terrible—so noisy with late comers and gay parties. I'm usually a wreck. K. and I went into town again—bought a Malacca cane for Donald, some books on India, etc., and wandered about native quarters. We looked into a mosque. We discovered a marvelous Chinese temple or school all covered over with the stunningest and most intricate figures of tiny pieces of porcelain—all over the roofs and on tops of partitions. Also, beautifully carved beams and some large porcelain panels of birds and animals.

Loss-sticks were burning before Chinese inscriptions—great porcelain vases were all about.

Then we landed by the vile smelling river, chock full of sampans upon which many wretched people live and die. The street on the water front was fascinating—many food vendors, little bamboo shelters for the people to eat under, great ox-carts lumbering by, sweating coolies with tremendous loads and women and children on second story balconies looking down on it all. In the midst of this we suddenly saw a rudely constructed bamboo stage built out at the very water's edge and high up over peoples' heads. Here, to the clang and shriek of Chinese music, in marvelous get-ups, a troupe of boy actors were holding forth to the crowd. K. had her camera and we were praying that her snaps will be successful. She and I are noted for getting local color in each port!

But the heat! And then a tropical shower and the boat and we were on our way to Batavia.

We crossed the equator on that trip and duly celebrated it. The crew and many of the boys who had not been across before were initiated by King Neptune's subjects. Court was held forward between the two swimming pools. Neptune was a scream and his Court, too. The crew improvised and had the time of their lives. Each person brought up before the King had to be given some nasty medicine and then a shave, the shaving soap being some awful black greasy stuff thickly applied, followed by plenty of flour. Thereupon the victim was dumped bodily into the swimming pool. Usually the victims were awaiting newcomers and made sure that they were really rough with. Fierce looking pirates ransacked the ship for victims. It was heaps of fun, but frightfully hot.

Next came Batavia, Java.

KEEP 'EM IN SCHOOL

Boys and Girls Who Leave "Just Flounder Around," Reports Show.

The wastefulness of child labor, even where it is under public regulation, is shown by recent reports gathered by the Woman's Home Companion in Pittsburgh. There as elsewhere boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 16 can go to work by obtaining employment certificates. The records show that three-fourths of them leave school forever at 14. Nearly half of them have not got beyond the sixth grade in grammar school.

Almost all of them get into "routine or blind-alley jobs" which do not prepare them for any specific adult work, the astute magazine observer finds. They keep changing from one job to another and they lose so much time between jobs that they are idle from 30 to 45 percent of the time.

Thus the stale argument that it is often better to quit school and "get an early start in life" falls to the ground. With few exceptions, these boys and girls do not get started. They simply flounder around.

"Send your sons and daughters back to school this fall," is the observer's verdict. "And keep up the long fight for child labor legislation that will prevent headless parents and employers from depriving other boys and girls of the education that this country offers free to its future citizens."

THE EVENING AND THE MORNING

[For The Courier-Gazette] "Lullaby baby," the mother sings. As the evening shadows fall, While to prevent headless parents Creeps to the Sandman's call: "Lullaby baby" the mother croons, And a song that never dies. Remembered always when rites and runes Have been proven shades and lies. The tired man remembers. The song that never dies. While the Sandman pressed his fingers On the baby's tired eyes. But the light of morning wakened To another happy day. That little boy, so long ago, To laughter and to play. "Lullaby" softly the angel of sleep As the evening shadows fall. Sings, as to rest we silently creep. To the sound of that Angelic which, Cool fingers pressed on the tired eyes, Tenderly too, I know, As weary as I am, life's long day. To the valley of sleep we go. But the beautiful morning will waken us. To another happier day. A bright and shining morning. When the night has passed away. Nana Huntley.

"THE FRIENDLY MAIDS"
Cap'n Cottle Pays 'Em a Visit In Their Boston Studio.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:— I took a trip to Scitoville, Mass., to see the folks, early in July and as some of the days were warm it was cooler to stay in the house and tune in on the radio than it was to go out. So early in the morning I'd get the "Tower Health Exercises." "The Roaring Lyons," and then at 9.30 the "Friendly Maids."

They seemed such a jolly crowd, and so willing to please their unseen audience with requested selections that one day when it cooled off a little I decided to visit the studio of WEEI at 29 Boylston street, in Boston. Just take the elevator to the fourth floor, down the corridor and there you are, right in the studio. Everybody welcome.

The concert was going full swing, studio nearly full and new comers arriving every minute. Your ideas of a broadcasting studio receive quite a shock when you see the studio. The "mike" doesn't look very impressive. Some of your readers I know listen in mornings to this program, and may like brief description of the studio arrangement.

The "mike" is on the farther side of the studio from the entrance, seats being arranged around three sides of the room, and Carlton H. Dickerman the announcer sits near it. He doesn't really sit much, for he is hopping around like corn in a popper, looking out for guests, going to the "mike" and announcing, going over to the desk and writing up the log of the doings, etc. He is a busy man. Sometimes he sings, after much coaxing.

Marge, the young lady who leads the orchestra, plays the violin, calls off and laughs, stands in front of the mike. Lillian, who plays the double bass and the saxophone, Elizabeth the cello, Ethel the flute are grouped in a circle around her, a few feet away, and Mildred who plays piano part of the day and picks blueberries the other part is over in the corner. Something doing every minute, and I haven't had such a good time since I had the measles when I was a boy during a hot spell in June.

The Friendly Maids with their music and laughter are certainly brightening the corners in many a New England household and bringing sunshine to many a shut-in. Long may they continue to broadcast their forenoon program.

Capt. Isaac Cottle, Home Harbor, Maine.

UNITY MAN WOULD FLY

A Maine man wants to fly with Commander Richard Byrd on his trip to the South Pole. The name of the young man is Fred H. Whitehouse and he is a resident of Unity, Waldo County. Mr. Whitehouse wrote Gov. Brewster in regard to the matter and the Governor replied, saying that if applications are being received, he would be glad to give any information in his possession. Gov. Brewster wrote Commander Byrd stating that Maine is of course proud of its record of exploration, and would be very gratified at having a representative on his Southern trip.

Sympathy is like blond hair; a lot of it isn't the real thing.

A SMALL CHURCH
East Belfast To Have House of Worship Only 20x30 feet.

One of the smallest churches in the country is now in process of construction in what is known as the Union District, just above Mason's Mills in East Belfast. The whole building is only 20x30 feet, and it has been called the "smallest church in the world." This, however, is not so for there is a tiny one which holds only three people, but the community which is building this one is very small, so only a small church is required.

It is being erected on a lot given by the heirs of the late John C. Ford, and is now nearing completion, work on the inside finish and painting on. All of the money and work have been donated by the people of the little community. Alonzo Dickerson, the doing the carpenter work and the women have given dinners when the men have had "bees" for working on the church. The little building is to be known as the Union District Sunday School chapel, with Mrs. C. C. Ford as president of the society. The building will be used for the Sunday School for the most part, as the schoolhouse has been utilized for this purpose heretofore. Money, lumber and labor have been cheerfully given by the people of the community, and work will progress just as fast as funds can be procured.

MILLIONS OF TREES

Seventy-three million trees were planted during the past year. Forty-two States are trying to make up for their wastes of forests, and among those that have made the most progress are Pennsylvania, which has planted 27,916,029 new trees; New York with 22,000,000 and Michigan with 10,000,000. The State appropriation in Pennsylvania was $1,203,485.
